

Biographical data

Dr Thitinan Pongsudhirak is Director of the Institute of Security and International Studies (ISIS) and Assistant Professor of International Political Economy at the Faculty of Political Science, Chulalongkorn University. He has authored a host of articles and book chapters on Thailand's politics, political economy, foreign policy, and the role of the media in democratisation, as well as ASEAN and East Asian security and economic cooperation. He is frequently quoted and his op-eds have regularly appeared in international and local media outlets, including a column in The Bangkok Post. Dr Thitinan has worked for The Nation newspaper, The BBC World Service, the Economist Intelligence Unit (EIU), and Independent Economic Analysis (IDEA) as well as occasional consulting projects related to Thailand's macro-economy and politics. He received his BA from the University of California at Santa Barbara, MA from the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies, and PhD from the London School of Economics where his work on the political economy of the Thai economic crisis in 1997 was awarded the United Kingdom's Best Dissertation Prize.

His recent publications include: "The Malay-Muslim Insurgency in Southern Thailand" in Andrew T.H. Tan (ed.), Handbook on Terrorism and Insurgency in Southeast Asia, Singapore: Edward Elgar, 2007; "Thaksin's Political Zenith and Nadir" in Southeast Asian Affairs 2006, Singapore: Institute of Southeast Asian Studies, 2006; and "World War Two and Thailand After 60 Years: Legacies and Latent Side-Effects" in David Koh (ed.), World War Two: Transient and Enduring Legacies for East and Southeast Asia 60 Years On, Singapore: Institute of Southeast Asian Studies, 2007. His current projects include book and journal chapters on the emerging regional order in East Asia, Thai foreign policy under Thaksin, the violence in southern Thailand, Thailand's elusive democratic consolidation, Thailand's political crisis of 2006-07. He is working on a book focusing on the connection and continuity between Thailand's economic crisis of 1997 and its political crisis of 2006-07.